RE: Adcom Logistics/Bonnie Knoedler

To whom it may concern,

I have known Bonnie personally and professionally since 2014. While I have dealt with logistics, 3rd party freight companies and overall global transportation since the early 2000s, Adcom Logistics truly is the one company that stands apart from the rest.

Bonnie has figured out a way to actually inject a sense of urgency, responsibility and accountability into an industry that historically has very little. She has built this reputation by doing the right thing, even in situations when fault is subjective. She manages a team of professional representatives and logistics experts from their corporate office in Virginia, which are all very punctual with great attention to detail.

We have learned a lot from each other over the last 5 years, and continue to develop and strengthen our relationship with steady consistent growth between both of our companies. Adcom has allowed our company to grow in a global marketplace while also providing our clients safe and reliable transportation.

Feel free to contact me with any other questions.

Sincerely,

Joey Colarulo

Vice President of Sales
